GREEN COVE SPRINGS -- The Green Cove Springs Police Department was recently recognized by Family Support Services of North Florida (FSS) for outstanding community service by hosting the Teen Summit, an annual event addressing topics facing youth today.

Jim Adams, FSS chief executive officer, presented a plaque of appreciation to Chief of Police Robert A. Musco at the May 4 Green Cove Springs City Council meeting. Brandi Truesdell, 911 dispatcher, and Mel Acres, officer, who help organize the Teen Summit, accepted the plaque on behalf of the entire police department.

Adams commended the police department for its proactive outreach and focus on prevention by hosting the summit for five years. The summit provides education and discussion of drug awareness, school bullying, internet safety, youth gangs, moral decision-making, peer pressure and other topics of concern to teens. The 2010 Teen Summit will be held Sept. 25, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., at Green Cove Springs Junior High.

Family Support Services of North Florida is the lead community-based care agency providing services to children and families in Duval and Nassau counties through foster care, adoption and prevention.
